

Structured Interview: Critical Incident for Practicing Physicians

Name of interviewer: _____

Interviewee number: _____ (please number consecutively)

Age: _____

Sex: ☐ Female ☐ Male

Group: ☐ Physician ☐ Staff ☐ Patient

Medical field: ☐ Radiology ☐ Pathology ☐ Surgery ☐ Internal Medicine ☐ Psychiatry ☐ General Practitioner

Think of an example that demonstrates particularly effective or ineffective behavior of a medical doctor. Please describe this situation and the behavior as specifically as possible.

- What were the circumstances or background context that led to this behavior?
- Describe the specific behavior of the physician. What was particularly effective or ineffective about this behavior?
- What were the consequences of this behavior?
- What would be normal behavior in such a situation? (How do physicians usually act?)
- What would be particularly ineffective behavior in such a situation? (If ineffective behavior has been described, what would be particularly effective behavior in such a situation?)

➔ Detailed notes